

RATLINGATE INTERNATIONAL CAMPING CENTRE

With four acres of camping field and twenty acres of mixed woodland and pine plantation, the site provides an excellent base for outdoor activities. There is ample wood for open fires. Campers have access to water at several standpipes around the site and have the use of the toilet block in the main building.

Ratlingate, in its woodland environment, is very much a traditional Scout Campsite, yet is also ideally located for exploring the surrounding area – the City of Carlisle is 4 miles away, Scotland 10 miles and the Lake District 20.

Ratlingate is owned and operated by Reivers District Scout Council. Scouts and Guides from all over the world have enjoyed its facilities. Schools, colleges and other youth organisations are regular visitors. The Resident Warden is also available for help and advice.
